Rabbi Wise Elected, District Rule Adopted By Zionists

Fighting Continues

JERUSALEM (Spl.) — With bombings and other outbursts of violence so common as no longer to merit space on the front pages of newspapers throughout the world, the situation in Palestine remained tense, despite Sir Wauchope's radio warning that the government would continue to employ military force to combat terrorism.

Meanwhile Arab store owners whose business has been at a standstill for more than two months now are seeking a way to bring about peace.

The picture below shows British soldiers perched atop strategic houses with light field pieces and machine guns ready to fire at a moment's notice.

Near Nablus, where the Arab opposition has massed, the troops are scouring the hills and mountains, searching for snipers and ammunition caches.

PHIL LEVY

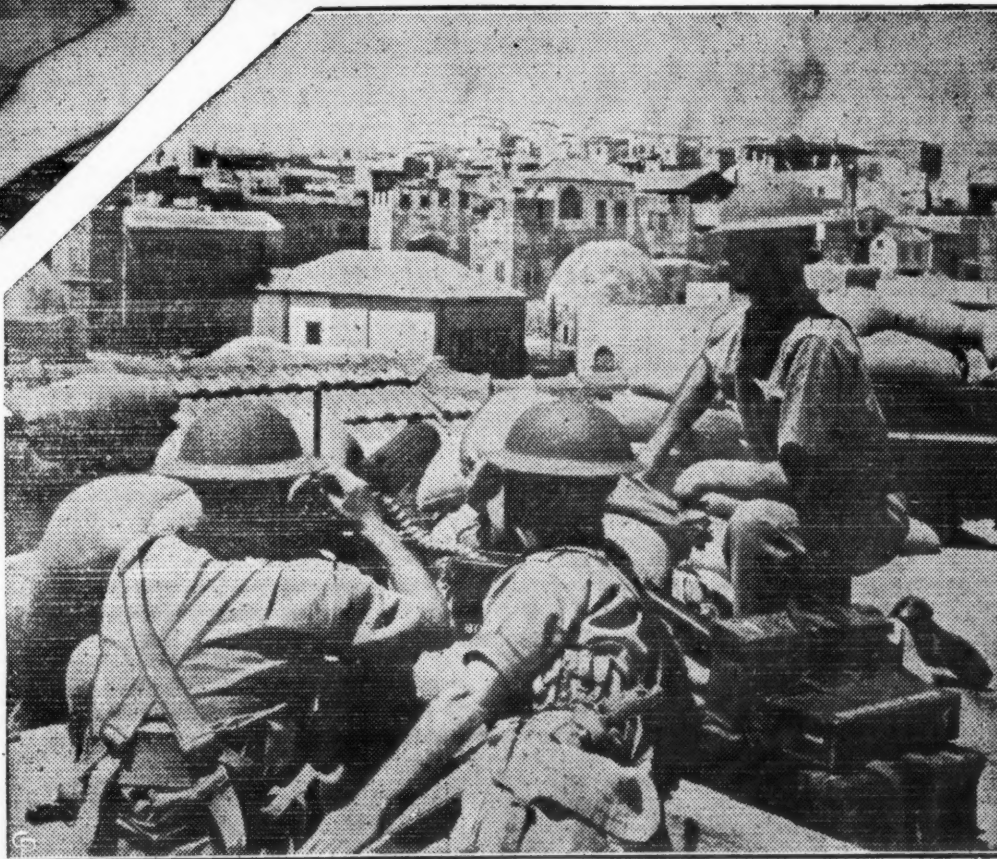

Should Make Team

(Picture Above)

NEW YORK (Spl.) — Fighting for a berth on the U. S. Olympic team in the finals here this weekend will be Phil Levy, Stanford University star discus hurler. Along with Levy attempting to make the trip to Berlin will be at least a score of Jewish performers.

Levy's best mark, 170 ft. 10 5-8 inches, is slightly more than an inch under the accepted world mark.

The hullabaloo about Jewish performers participating in the Olympic Games seems to have died down, with even Rabbi Louis I. Newman hoping that a good number of Jewish stars will be represented on the American team.

Heated Session Ends In Harmony; Endorse Congress

PROVIDENCE, R. I. (Spl.) — After hearing a withering attack on the centralization of Zionist authority in the area of New York, the Zionist Organization of America finally named Rabbi Stephen S. Wise president for the coming year, but not without unexpected opposition from many delegates.

A trade engineered with the forces endorsing Morris Rothenberg resulted in Rabbi Wise's election, which had been predicted as a walkaway until the opposition from all sides made itself known.

The new regional plan to divide the nation into self-sustaining districts was adopted after Rabbi H. Raphael Gold, vice president, voiced the growing dissatisfaction with the centralization of Zionist authority in the New York area.

"Important as New York is," he asserted, "to lock upon the United States as a suburb of New York City is something the country will not tolerate very much longer."

Mr. Rothenberg, in a report on the new regional plan, agreed that leadership was required throughout the nation and conceded that the office at 111 Fifth Avenue was partially responsible for retarding its development.

By SELIG GREENBERG

PROVIDENCE, R. I. (Spl.) — With harmony restored in its ranks following the election of Rabbi Stephen S. Wise to the presidency, the 39th annual convention of the Zionist Organization of America adjourned here after adopting resolutions pledging continued support of Palestine Jewry in the hour of crisis.

Outstanding among the resolutions passed unanimously was one appealing to the British Government for "firm action" to curb Arab disorders and for the arming of "all available Jews" in Palestine for self defense purposes in view of the present inadequacy of the British military forces in the Holy Land.

Delegates from all parts of the country gave concrete demonstration of their determination to translate words into action when from the floor they pledged money for the planting of more than 25,000 new trees in the forests of the Jewish National Fund in Palestine to replace those destroyed by Arab vandals. These pledges were made in a stirring demonstration of enthusiasm after passage of a resolution for a campaign for the planting of 100,000 trees in Palestine.

The Editor's Chair

Even the youngest of us can remember the day when books and novels of Jewish interest were so unusual that their publication was an event in the Jewish community. "The Island Within" created more of a ruffle on the waters of Jewish existence than a small-sized pogrom in Rumania.

That day, however, is past. If anything at present the Jewish reader is beleaguered with a plethora of titles, all on Jewish subjects. The Jewish problem is discussed from every angle, historical and present, even so much so that Nathan attacked the question for the future in his "Road of Ages."

For this fall, book publishers are almost racing to bring out the first Jewish novel. Knopf's translation of Singer's "The Brothers Ashkenazi" brings to the American Jewish scene a new author, but the old standbys like Feuchtwanger, Asch and others will all be in the struggle for the Jewish reading market.

This race indicates a renaissance in Jewish literature. Which indicates a renaissance in things Jewish. Which indicates a wide-awake interest in the problems and affairs and lives of Jews.

Jewish people of the U. S. can support the Olympics financially, spiritually and by active participation in the contests. Rabbi Louis I. Newman hopes that "the American team will have a large percentage of Jews." He also expresses the inanity that each athlete should decide for himself. The athletes have. To a man they have decided to participate. American Jewry, and their rabbis can either support the Olympics, or not, but they can't for the integrity of their own self respect fight the Olympics and at the same time hope that the more virile and vigorous of American Jewish youth will take part.

Increases In United Drives Uniting American Jewry

Unnoticed on a national scale, a move has been going forward which ultimately will lead to that unification in the American Jewish community which to the execrable leaders of present-day Jewish affairs in this nation is still so far in the future that they have not even arrived at the point of devoting their energies to obtaining control over it.

This move is the uniting of drives in more than fifty cities by the Council of Jewish Federations and Welfare Funds.

Although a united drive in a city like Chicago, Detroit, Indianapolis, or Los Angeles can by no means be said to constitute a united Jewry in that community, it certainly is the first step towards that desired goal. If organizations in a community pool their efforts in one major objective, they have already passed their first and greatest barrier towards unity. Leading from united drives, experience shows, are united conferences, and from united conferences, permanent organizations for the effectual unity in the community are but a natural outgrowth.

According to the most recent figures released by the Council, the number of cities conducting united drives has increased from 18 in 1934 to fifty-four this year. Last year thirty-four cities conducted united drives. In that time the money raised increased from $1,019,601 to an estimated $3,250,000 this year. The announcement leads the innocent reader to believe that this increase is a normal evolution. Admittedly there was a tendency in this direction, but without the aid and leadership of the Council, whose announcement is one of the most modest, if not the most modest, ever released by a Jewish organization, this amazing growth could not have been possible. The Council since 1934 has employed a paid representative to visit cities throughout the United States with a view to forming united fund-raising drives.

United Jewry in this nation is not and never was the problem of the Council of Jewish Federations. What it sought to accomplish was a union of effort leading to an elimination of expense in the many drives held by individual groups throughout the year. One drive, the Council has contended, would result not only in a more equitable distribution of the funds from any one community, but would also drive out the fraudulent and spurious organizations who perennially flood every city with agents and mashulachim.

No less should be the credit then to the Council of Jewish Federation and Welfare Funds for if in doing its own specific task of uniting funds, it achieves the almost unachievable task of uniting United States Jewry.

President Cohen's Letter Should Have Salutary Effect

President Alfred M. Cohen's letter to this paper denying that he "contemplates resigning" should have a salutary effect in cleaning up the general confusion in connection with leadership in the B'nai B'rith, the largest Jewish organization in the United States.

Probably unbeknown to Senator Cohen, the feeling has been general among B'nai B'rith lodges that he intends to relinquish his position at the expiration of his present term. Likewise, it was understood that Judge I. M. Golden, of San Francisco, would succeed him. Never has it been intimated that President Cohen would be replaced, but it has been felt as almost a certainty that Judge Cohen would not be a candidate for reelection.

At the last convention of District No. 2 in Cincinnati, no attempt was made to hide the fact that Judge Cohen would be succeeded by Judge Golden. Rather it was a matter of common conversation.

Now that Senator Cohen denies that he contemplates resigning, although he does not specifically say that he will be a candidate for another term, an end to the talk about his successor should be made. In due time President Cohen will make his wishes known, and then and only then should the "machers" in the lodge begin choosing his successor.

Anti-Semitism Now In Its Third Historical Wave

"Anti-Semitism Yesterday and Tomorrow" by Rabbi Levinger Lauded by Christian; Hailed a s Admirable Survey of Problem

By HENRY SMITH LEIPER

Probably nobody needs to be told that we are now in an era of anti-Semitism almost worldwide. Not so many recognize the fact that this is the third great wave since the destruction of Jerusalem, the first having occurred in the eleventh century and the second in the fifteenth. Since these three ages possess certain common features, Rabbi Lee J. Levinger begins by telling the story from the Biblical period down to the triumph of Adolph Hitler and the abortive presidential boom of the American Jew-baiter, McFadden.

His survey, "Anti-Semitism Yesterday and Tomorrow," is extraordinarily full and detailed, yet marked by literary skill and an admirable economy of words. Even so, it occupied exactly one-half of the book. This is not by accident, however, as the author aims to present a general survey of the entire problem for the general reader, both Jewish and non-Jewish. He does not pretend to be impartial. He writes frankly as a Jew. Nevertheless, he does succeed in maintaining an admirable objectivity and in shedding light without too much heat.

The second half of the book is devoted to an analysis of the causes of that discrimination and persecution which have so often been the lot of the Jews. Beginning with religious causes, the author traces the problem through its economic aspects, its political complications, its racial theorizings and its environmental angles. This brings him to the sociological treatment of anti-Semitism. With sound good sense, he recognizes that the modern sociological diagnosis is the only ultimately reliable method for handling such a problem. The chief fact concerning the Jews is that they are, from a general viewpoint, "an eternal minority," visible to the eye, conspicuous from the point of view of social organization and international by compulsion, if not by choice. The final chapters deal with the results of anti-Semitism and possible remedies.

I find it difficult not to use superlatives in describing this book. It is an exhibition of admirable scholarship and sound common sense such as one does not strike very frequently in volumes devoted to such explosive themes. Having myself read a good many testimonies of the subject from the pens of both Christians and Jews, I am impressed with the number of new ideas which are to be found in this study—likewise with the number of little-known but decidedly relevant facts which the author has unearthed.

Among a mass of material which is to say the least discouraging to the lover of justice and humiliating to the follower of Christ, it is cheering to come upon reminders of those long periods in history when there has been little or no active anti-Semitism despite the presence of approximately the same percentage of Jews among numerous populations throughout the world. It is definitely true that chiefly in times of rapid transition, of great intellectual or physical ferment, during economic depression, wars and religious upheavals, prejudice against minorities becomes apparent and vehement. But, fortunately for those who are the victims of intolerance, in the long sweep of history transition periods and economic depressions are not without end.

Probably the American reader will find the most thought-provoking parts of the book devoted to the study of anti-Semitism in this country. Rabbi Levinger does not share the optimism of the authors of the Fortune article of recent months which brushes aside the idea that anti-Semitic movements in this country can be of any serious consequence. He points out that within the last fifty years over two and a half million Jews, mostly from southern European countries with economic and cultural standards far different from those of America's majority groups, settled in the United States. He reminds us that it was not until 1877 that laws discriminating against Jews and preventing them from acquiring legal residence were removed from the statute books even in New Hampshire!

He points to the open advocacy of political anti-Semitism in the United States by ex-Congressman McFadden who in 1935 sought nomination for the presidency on the Republican ticket with the platform, "Christianity instead of Judaism; Americanism against Communism; National-

Freedom of the Press

Denies He Intends To Resign

To the Editor:

Your issue of June 19 contains an item marked "Cincinnati, O. (Spl.*)" announcing that B'nai B'rith offices will be removed before the end of 1936 to Washington, D. C. and that I contemplate resigning as president of B'nai B'rith.

Both statements are erroneous and purporting to have emanated from Cincinnati, are apt to cause regrettable confusion.

If the report was actually sent from Cincinnati, it was completely unauthorized and without the slightest foundation.

Sincerely yours,

ALFRED M. COHEN, President.
Cincinnati, O.

Editor's Note: The article said the two points mentioned "are definitely expected by those in close touch with affairs of the lodge." This paper is glad to make the correction.

JEWISH CALENDAR

The Jewish calendar is based on lunar reckonings. The circling of the moon around the earth constitutes a month. Twelve lunar months constitute a year. The Jewish names of the months are: Tishre, Cheswan, Kislev, Tebeth, Shebat, Adar, Nissan, Iyyar, Siwan, Tammuz, Ab, Elul. The circling of the moon around the earth takes 29 days, 12 hours, 44 minutes. In order to use round figures the five months Tishre, Shebat, Nissan, Siwan, Ab, were arranged with 30 and the five months Tebeth, Adar, Iyyar, Tammuz and Elul with 29 days.

The months Cheswan and Kislev have sometimes 29 and sometimes 30 days, the number being determined by the adjustment of the calendar, resulting from the fixing of the Day of Atonement (which, according to the Law, must never occur on a Friday or a Sunday) and of Hashana Rabba (which must never fall on Saturday).

The twelve months total 354 days, 8 hours, 48 minutes and 36 seconds as against 365 days, 6 hours and 48 seconds of the solar year (according to the Jewish sages).

ism against Internationalism; and Individualism instead of Collectivism." However, it is not the political anti-Semitism of such absurd and discredited gentlemen as Mr. McFadden and his blood brother, Pelley, late of the Silver Shirts, that really matters in the United States, it is rather economic discrimination which even more than religious or social prejudice now confronts the American Jew.

In spite of all the difficulties, no defeatist attitude need be assumed, for "as the causes of anti-Semitism, and of all race hatred, lie in environment rather than in heredity, they can be cured. . . . But the causes of anti-Semitism are deep-rooted in the social system. The remedy is not a ready nor a quick one, it involves vast changes of opinion in many millions of people. . . . It must be a long term program, for only that can ever touch the causes, can ever change the thinking of mobs, parties or nations, or can ever turn their members from mass thinking to individual thinking."

To Bess Robbins

Another seven days rolled away and back at the typewriter for the weekly check-up . . . so many people have left town for vacations and so few people group together during the hot summer months that it is difficult to find anybody or anything to write about . . . believe you me it's been plenty hot, what with the temperature hovering each day around 100 degrees . . . however, it is not hard to choose a person for the present award of flowers for being outstanding in our Jewish community, so here goes. . . I said it was to be a lady and so it is . . . it is the popular belief that Bess Robbins is deserving of a beautiful bouquet of flowers and so be it . . . among other reasons why she should receive this honor is that she was the first Jewish lassie to be elected from this bailiwick to the house of representatives and if my brain cells serve me properly (because of this intense heat I don't know if they do) Bess is not only the first Jewish girl to be elected from Marion County but also the first girl from here, Jewish or Gentile, to be so honored. . . Bess has been the president of the local women lawyers' association, and is also a very successful lawyeress . . . an outstanding example to the Jewish girls of our community, she illustrates just how high up the ladder one can go . . . everyone here knows Bess Robbins and she is well deserving of having her name placed among the others who have preceded her in this column as outstanding characters of our community deserving recognition . . . congratulations, Bess, I feel sure that we will see and hear a lot more good things about you. . . well, folks, the list is growing and there are more to come . . . next week I am reverting back to the male group again and when you see who has been chosen you will agree with me that he is certainly deserving of this additional honor. . . Who will it be? . . . I know, but do you? . . .

Going Going

It seems amazing how fast this year seems to be slipping by . . . it is more than half gone already and it seems like only yesterday that we were shoveling coal and fighting 15 below zero weather (not me though, I live in an apartment) . . . I'm fighting 100 degrees above, temperatures. . .

Sun Bitten

Took a canoe up the river on the Fourth with Joe Bernstein, intending to visit several friends who have cottages, but durned if we could find any of them . . . all we found were mosquitoes and sun burn . . . boy, was that sun hot and did the bugs bite? . . .

At Lake Wawasee

Eddie Mantel spent the week ending up at Lake Wawasee as did Dr. Ruben Solomon and wife, Julian Bamberger and wife, Willard Kahn, mother and Virginia Mayer . . . you know that Willard is living in Pittsburgh now . . . also up at the lake could be seen Jack I. Kahn, attorney . . . Hortense Falender . . . Marvin Lasky, formerly of Indianapolis, now of Chicago . . . Mildred Falender . . . Bob Mack . . . Sam Abels and wife, the former Frances Falender . . . WEEKLY BUSINESS REVIEW

ENGLISH HOTEL FLORISTS FEATURE CACTUS

96 VARIETIES CREATE UNUSUAL WINDOW DISPLAY

Cactus from Texas, California, Mexico, Arizona, and South America, shown in a "natural" setting in the display window of English Hotel Florists, is attracting much attention from flower lovers, and from the idly curious.

When cactus is mentioned, most people have a mental picture of a rough, extremely thorny and not particularly beautiful plant into which the hero of the Western movie knocks the villain. But, that is only one of the ninety-six varieties stocked by English Hotel Florists. Many of the types are neither rough nor thorny, and all have their place in the garden or flower box of flower lovers.

"Most of the cacti we sell goes into rock gardens," Mr. K. O. Wade, manager of the shop, and formerly florist at L. S. Ayres & Co., said, "but they offer lots of other possibilities, too. Apartment dwellers and others with limited space use them to create miniature gardens in window boxes, or grow them in pots. They are extremely hardy and require a minimum of attention. Their cost is reasonable, too."

Conveniently located on Monument Circle, English Hotel Florists is open evenings and Sundays. A complete line of flowers for every occasion is offered, with special attention to funeral work. Each week they offer an outstanding week-end special in which some item is offered at a distinct savings. Roses at seventy-five cents a dozen and Gardenias at fifteen cents each are always available. The telephone number is 1501.

The Jewish Post "Bouquet of the Week" is prepared each week by English Hotel Florists, under the personal direction of Mr. Wade.

Child Psychology

Then there's the story going the rounds about the intellectual Jewish matron who, in her own mind, is a great disciple of the psychoanalyst, Freud. Her young son is being subjected to theories of child psychology that for lack of better authority are being attributed to the venerable Viennese doctor.

The youngster is never curbed. His every action is looked upon as the natural expression of a pure mind. In other words, the youngster is well on his way to being a brat.

Not only would the great master of psychoanalysis feel faint at seeing his theories of education so abused, but the youngster himself is rebelling. The other day in distracted finality, he sat on the floor and demanded, "Mamma, must I always do what I want to do?"

GOD OMITTED

The name of God has been completely omitted from the Book of Esther. The only reason that can be adduced is that the name of God was kept out of the work to prevent the Persians from substituting for it the name of one of their own deities. Various hagadists have interpreted words and phrases in the book as making covert reference to God.

REVIVALIST, PELLEY STIR HATRED IN MINNESOTA

Broadcasts Are Stayed

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (Spl.)—Blocked in his efforts to broadcast anti-Semitic propaganda over the air waves, the Rev. C. O. Stadsklev, fiery Minneapolis evangelist, is continuing to disseminate his racial poison at open air revival meetings throughout the city.

Since last winter the broadcaster of "Prophetic News" program, Rev. Stadsklev openly labelled himself a Jewish foe on June 21 when he discussed "The Protocols" (so-called "Protocols of the Elders of Zion") on his paid program.

The management of WTCN, upon receipt of complaints concerning the nature of the broadcast, made it clear to the evangelist that the station would not countenance such utterances and extracted a promise from him that he would cease.

"I'm a young fellow just getting started along this line," he told an American Jewish World reporter.

The Rev. Mr. Stadsklev had many sources of information. There was, for instance, Robert E. Edmondson of the Edmondson Economic Service, anti-Jewish propagandist now under indictment in New York City for criminal libel.

"Edmonds," as the evangelist insisted on calling the propagandist, "was doing a worthy service for American manhood and womanhood," he said, "and was being unmercifully 'crucified' by Mayor La Guardia, himself one of those people, for his activities."

The minister's chief source of information, however, comes from Wichita, Kans., where Gerald B. Winrod publishes the "Defender" and the "Revealer," anti-Semitic scandal sheets.

The Rev. Mr. Stadsklev was not adverse to showing his file on "Jews and Palestine," which contained for the most part clippings from Winrod's publications.

The clippings included articles by Winrod entitled "Moscow Jews Kill Millions of Gentiles," "The Jew, International Finance, and The House of Rothschild," "Vital Information Proving the Jewish Character of Communism" and listing in detail the names and nationalities of 545 members of the Russian dictatorship, "452 of whom were Jews." Other clippings included "The Jews and Bolshevism," by a Dr. A. Homer, London, England, "Organized Opposition Against International Jewish Conspiracy," by a Dr. Hugh W. White, Presbyterian minister and editor of "The China Fundamentalist," "Roosevelt's Jewish Appointments," by Winrod.

COOPERATION SOUGHT

LAKESIDE, O. (NCJC)—The Christian Youth Conference of North America, attended by one thousand delegates, adopted the report of a commission urging cooperation with Jewish and Catholic religious agencies. The report expressed the Christian young people as "eager to work" with these agencies.

Jewish Beauty Groomed For Stardom

JUNE TRAVIS

Out in Hollywood the word has been passed around that June Travis, Jewish screen star, is being groomed for stardom. An attractive brunette, with Grecian features, Miss Travis has shown exceptional promise in the parts given her in the past six months. Pictures of Miss Travis are flooding the nation, an infallible sign that the producers are behind the actress' rise to fame.

Opposition To Hitlerism Growing, Group Hears

SWARTHMORE, Pa. (Spl.)—There is a tremendous amount of underground opposition in Germany although it is not visible, Mary G. Cary, formerly of the International Quaker Center in Berlin, told the Institute of International Relations here yesterday. The Institute is sponsored by the Society of Friends.

She summarized the present situation as follows:

Unemployment has decreased, but everyone, paid or unpaid, not receiving a dole is said to be employed.

The average wage of Germans has not risen since 1932, but prices have risen twenty per cent. About one-fourth of the wages are taken for Nazi party funds.

"When they talked about Jewish control it was mostly nonsense," Mrs. Cary said, "although they were careful to do away with Jewish floorwalkers and salesgirls."

"Nazi propaganda goes with everyone who leaves Germany. They must tell about 'racial superiority.' They must urge their listeners to read 'Mein Kampf.' Nazis are spreading anti-Jewish propaganda in Czechoslovakia."

Germany's army is not one of attack at present, Mrs. Cary said.

She commended American participation in the Olympic Games on the ground that Germans would have a chance to meet people from the outside, something which rarely happens. "Americans in Germany," Mrs. Cary said, "can help by declining to get enthusiastic when Nazis begin to glow about the new Germany."

Goldfarb Named Nowak Successor

CLEVELAND, O. (Spl.)—Rabbi Harry Goldfarb, scion of a distinguished family of rabbis and musicians, has been named spiritual leader of the Community Temple to succeed Rabbi Abraham Nowak, the board of trustees announced.

Educated in New York and a graduate of Columbia University, Rabbi Goldfarb organized the Junior Congregation of Temple Emanu-El, on Staten Island, and was a teacher in Rabbi Wise's Free Synagogue religious school.

CHIEF RABBI DIES

VIENNA (Spl.)—The Vienna Jewish community is mourning the death of Dr. David Feuchtwang, 71, chief rabbi of Vienna, who died here last week.

Rabbi Can't Even Enjoy Own Wedding Dinner

HARTFORD, Conn. (Spl.)—It seems there's no rest for rabbis in June—not even on their wedding day.

At 2:30 on Sunday afternoon, Rabbi Irving N. Weinberg was married to Miss Alice Forman at the Agudas Achim Synagogue.

At 8:30 he was whisked away from his own wedding dinner to the Rockledge Country Club where he bound another couple in wedlock. A hurried journey ensued back to Hartford where Rabbi and Mrs. Weinberg "put one over" on the crowd waiting at the railroad station to see them off to New York.

They drove to New Haven instead and took the train there. The couple sail today for a trip to Palestine.

Olympic Ads Are Scored

NEW YORK (Spl.)—Pointing out that the necessity for publication of paid advertisements in the New York press "proves once more that the American public is not supporting the Berlin Olympiad," the Anti-Nazi League protested against the action in a telegram to Admiral Richmond Pearson Hobson, chairman of the New York Olympic Committee.

The advertisements, Captain G. E. Harriman, executive secretary of the League, declared in a statement are "an utter confession of failure on the part of the American Olympic Committee."

The paid advertisement appeared in local newspapers and urged the public to make up the $146,000 deficit in funds to send the American team to Germany. Only two weeks remain before the big sector of the American team is scheduled to leave for Germany.

Rabbi Feldman Spurns Vacation

HARTFORD, Conn. (Spl.)—Probably the only rabbi in the United States to do so, Rabbi Abraham J. Feldman, of Temple Beth Israel here, has announced that he will remain in the city all summer and will continue officiating at services Friday night and Saturday morning.

The majority of rabbis take long vacations during the summer, discontinuing Friday evening services until the fall. In many Temples, students at theological seminaries conduct services during the absence of the rabbi.

ENTERS WEST POINT

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (Spl.)—Morris Loeb Shoss, member of Adath Yeshurun's Sunday School faculty, has been accepted at West Point Military Academy, it was learned here. He was appointed by Congressman Joe Eigel. The Sunday School staff tendered Mr. Shoss a dinner last week before he left for West Point.

PIONEER DIES

MEXIA, Tex. (Spl.)—Joseph Nussbaum, 88, veteran oil operator, cattleman, trader and one of the founders of this city, was buried here last week. The Masonic Lodge of Mexia was named in his honor, and he was a 32nd degree Mason and a Shriner.

Membership Claims High

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (Spl.)—Claiming 6,000 members in Minnesota, W. G. Wright, organizer for the Christian Party, William Dudley Pelley's newest creation, told an investigator posing as a candidate for membership how the Christian Party operates.

Pelley, according to Wright, plans to lead his followers in "bloody revolution" in September, take over the government and establish his "Christian Commonwealth" dictatorship.

The "Christian Party," according to Wright, is not organizing for mass membership—"instead we are organizing people who will act as the leaders when the big blowup comes."

After the investigator had expressed his desire to join the Silver Shirts, Wright explained the method of procedure.

The candidate was required to collect nine people who wished to join. They would then assemble in some private meeting place, notifying Wright of the time and place. He then would explain the aims and purposes of the organization.

Each candidate, in turn, would organize his nine eligibles and thereby create the endless chain of race-hating groups. It has been rumored that several such groups have been organized in North Minneapolis. Groups of Pelleyites meet regularly in a building near Lake Street and Chicago Avenue.

Collects $109

SEATTLE (Spl.)—The audience attending Pelley's most recent speech here in his drive for the presidency of the United States was about four times as large as the group which heard him in Tacoma last week, but what is more (Continued on Last Page)

Purchase Of Southern California Suggested

NEW YORK (Spl.)—Suggesting that the Jewish War Veterans take the initiative, Louis Silverman, of Lawrence, Mass., in a letter in the June issue of the order's magazine urges the purchase of Lower California as a haven for dispossessed and persecuted Jews.

"Lower California, which is now for sale, could be purchased by the Jews of the world and converted into a country with its own government and its own flag," Mr. Silverman wrote. "Lower California can accommodate 15,000,000 people, and would be, in my opinion a haven for the Jews of the world."

Mr. Silverman declares in the beginning of his letter that his suggestion occurred to him following news of the riots in Palestine. The letter declares that Jerusalem "is not a place where an entirely Jewish country could be established."

Urging action, Mr. Silverman wrote, "The Jewish War Veterans of the United States, who first led the German boycott should be the first to call a meeting of the Jews of the world and, if possible and feasible, look into the matter of the purchase of Lower California from Mexico."

New Film Of Palestine

NEW YORK (Spl.)—Gratified with the reception of The Land of Promise, film of Palestine accomplished by the Jews, a new Palestinian film made in Palestine had its world premiere at the Cameo Theatre here Wednesday.

The picture is titled "This Is the Land."

The Palestine Fund is sponsoring the showing of the picture, which if successful in New York, will tour the nation, as did its predecessor.

WISE ELECTED

Under the compromise agreement passed by the convention, Morris Rothenberg, who relinquished the presidency to Dr. Wise, became chairman of the national administrative committee. A number of administrative reforms, one of which limits the tenure of the president to two years, also was voted.

Advocacy of the World Jewish Congress was pushed in a resolution adopted at the closing session.

Former Brooklyn Rabbi Succumbs In Palestine

HAIFA, Palestine (Spl.)—Rabbi Elias Inselbuch, former organizer of the World Mizrahi movement, and chairman of the executive committee of the Union of Orthodox Rabbis, died here Monday. Rabbi Inselbuch was spiritual leader of Congregation Beth-Hamedrosh Hagodol in Brooklyn from 1913 to 1932, when he resigned following the death of his wife, to live in Palestine.

Resignation Talk Denied

A denial that he contemplated resigning from the presidency of B'nai B'rith was made by Alfred M. Cohen, in a letter to this paper.

Referring to an article in the June 19 issue of this paper which reported that Judge I. M. Golden, of San Francisco, vice president of B'nai B'rith, would be named to succeed him, when he yielded the reins of the organization, President Cohen termed the statement, "erroneous." He also said that the B'nai B'rith did not intend moving its offices to Washington, D. C., before the end of 1936.

"Both statements," Judge Cohen's letter said, "are erroneous and purporting to have emanated from Cincinnati, are apt to cause regrettable confusion."

$3,250,000, '36 Income

NEW YORK (Spl.)—A growth of 300 per cent in the number of Jewish Welfare Funds in the United States in the past three years is reported in the current issue of Notes and News, publication of the Council of Jewish Federations and Welfare Funds.

During the same time, the publication declares, the amount collected increased threefold, from $1,019,601 in 1934, and $1,524,622 last year to an estimated $3,250,000 for 1936.

The movement developed slowly until 1934, at which time there were 18 Welfare Funds in the country. Since 1934 the growth has been phenomenal. By 1935 the number had grown to 34, and in June 1936, 54 Welfare Funds were reported in active operation.

Among cities reporting successful Welfare Fund campaigns for this year are: Atlanta, $52,000 raised in its first campaign; Chicago, $770,000 raised against a goal of $750,000; San Francisco raised $320,00, an increase of $138,000 over last year; Cleveland $231,000 raised—$95,000 more than last year; Detroit, the goal of $323,00 raised; Oakland, goal exceeded; Portland, Oregon, $61,663 goal exceeded by $16,463; and St. Louis, which raised $60,000 more than last year.

Jew Who Killed Self In Protest Given Religious Rites

GENEVA (Spl.)—A Jewish religious burial with all honors ended the dramatic attempt of Stephen Lux, Jewish journalist, to bring to the attention of the world the plight of German Jewry. Lux shot himself in the League of Nations Assembly. Although not a religious Jew, Lux was given orthodox burial by a grateful Jewish community who crowded the cemetery where he was buried.

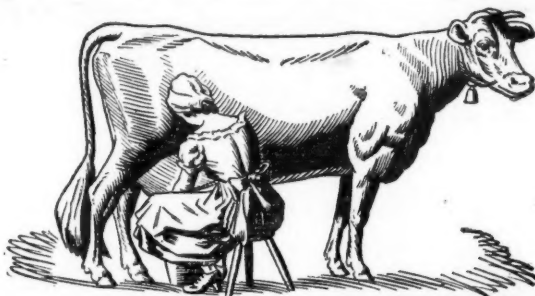

In his letter to Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden of Great Britain, Mr. Lux said, "I hope that this voluntary sacrifice of an unknown soldier of life will help bring a little charity and truth. When a man dies deliberately after serious reflection he can ask to be heard."

Emanu-El Rabbi On Chain Sunday

NEW YORK (Spl.)—Rabbi Nathan Perilman, assistant to Rabbi Goldenson at Temple Emanu-El, will speak on NBC's "Church of the Air" program at 1 o'clock Eastern Daylight Saving Time over Station WJC and the network. Rabbi Perilman's subject will be "What We Want Most."

CINCINNATI CHAMP

CINCINNATI, O. (Spl.)—Encountering little difficulty, Mrs. Burt Weil, Ohio State Women's champion, easily annexed the women's Cincinnati golf championship here.
